

In This Room

In this room, there is a feeling of peace, in this room, in this very room.

A peace that will lift you up, a peace that will fill your heart, in this room, in this very room.

In this room, there is a feeling of love, in this room, in this very room.

A love that will lift you up, a love that will fill your heart, in this room, in this very room.

For God said build me a church, a place that welcome all: the mighty and the lowly, the great and the small, the beggar and the wise man, the fancy and the plain, those who thirst or hunger, those who are in pain. We're all the same.

In this room, there is a feeling of joy, in this room, in this very room.

Now go forth and spread the peace, the love, and the joy from this very room!
